

ECO Class News

As Autumn draws to a close, it's time to share a little of what we have been getting up to in Eco Class ☺.

Science has been very exciting this half term with our Class 5 scientists investigating the nocturnal life within our school habitat. With a thorough survey of the school environment, the use of a night vision camera, and several hundred batteries, we have captured footage of various animals, including Mrs Tiggy-winkle above.

Alongside circuit training and invasion games in PE, we were lucky enough to take part in a basketball festival at Sandylands. Class 5 absolutely nailed it - had there been a trophy, it would have been theirs! Throughout this half term in English, we have focused on fine-tuning the skills needed to write a good story. This culminated in children writing their own chapter in our class book, adopting the voice of one of the main characters. It has been fantastic to see so much enthusiasm, stamina and originality!

In French we have been focused on activités de la journée, learning how to talk about our morning routines, and how to ask others about theirs – some impressive French-Yorkshire accents developing nicely... After a hard day's graft, everyone needs a bit of down time: we've spent our well-being time playing lots of whole class games (picked from a jar of children's requests), and weekly trips to our fabulous library. Each week, we have enjoyed a book review from a different class member – lots of super favourites shared and great discussion about these!
